| Segment 2                      | Finish up the Virgin River Rim trail. Classic rideable singletrack for the next ~ 18 miles.  | 11.6       |
| Navajo Lodge                   | supply point in season. A little off-route, but less than a mile. Rental cabins, showers also.   | 13         |
| L end VRRT                     |  | 30         |
| water                          | Often dry  | 31.7       |
| Harris rim ATV trail           |  | 31.7       |
| water                          | Often dry.   | 32         |
| water                          | Often dry.   | 35.1       |
| Hwy 14 E                       |  | 44         |
| Long Junction                  | Great resupply as gas stations go. Super clean, caters to lots of tourist traffic and is well stocked.   | 46.1       |
| Segment 3                      |  | 46.3       |
| Pole Cany TH                   | It looks like someones backyard, but this is good (and hidden) forest access   | 60.5       |
| Grandview trail                |  | 61.8       |
| Robinson Guzzler               | Man-made water collection. The usable water is somewhat hard to find, keep going farther than you think you need to, downhill past the structures, under a wooden plank.   | 68         |
| water cany #1                  | Usually has water but not always...  | 71.8       |
| Segment 3                      | Paunsaugunt Plateau  | 72         |
| Left/N to Straight Canyon TH   | Leave Grandview trail, ascend the Pink Cliffs. NOTE: GPS track is approx location until Crawford Pass Trail.   | 78         |
| Right on 2 track               |  | 78.2       |
| Begin Crawford Pass Trail      |  | 85.5       |

| Fremont ATV trail              |  | 108.1      |
| Thunder Mountain               | There is some non-potable water here (taps). It is there for horses, but if you are desperate...   | 119.7      |
| Segment 4                      | 50 miles long, this rugged and remote section is not for the faint of heart. You will hike your bike some, ride little known trails, enjoy varying far-reaching views in all directions...and just generally wonder where on earth you are. There will be significant amounts of deadfall across the Hunt trail, just how much depends on when the most recent trail maintenance was done. | 127.9      |
| Casto Canyon TH                |  | 131.1      |
| Hancock Trail                  |  | 135.6      |

| Water                          | Manmade water collection structure. Slightly off route, should be visible. It was full late May..  | 140        |
| Hard left turn                 | Unmarked trail descends to W Hunt Creek.   | 140.3      |

|  |   |       |
|--|---|-------|
| Jeep trail                                 |   | 143   |
| West Hunt Creek Trail                      | Trail head; head towards Adam's head  | 143.3 |
| Creek Crossing                             | Cross creek to begin W Hunt Creek trail   | 143.4 |
| FR 125                                     | Begin FR 125  | 151.1 |
| Snowslide Trail                            | Descend the Snowslide singletrack to the Fremont ATV trail  | 158.3 |
| Fremont ATV trail                          | Begin Fremont ATV trail. Take this all the way to Circleville.  | 161.3 |
| Segment 5                                  |   | 175.8 |
| Right                                      |   | 183.7 |
| Left, uphill on 153                        |   | 184.7 |
| Left/south                                 | Look for faint trail on right   | 194.5 |
| Right on faint trail                       | Trail will fade and disappear in a marshy spring area. Pick your way across the muck until you reach the creek. The trail eventually becomes quite good downstream a ways.  | 194.7 |
| Left up steep loose bank                   |   | 198.8 |
| Wishful trail ...                          | Trail is faint to gone for a bit...just work your way towards the road, following the track.  | 199.8 |
| Rejoin Piute ATV trail                     | Very nice climb to 10k on this ATV route.   | 200.4 |
| Follow track, many intersections           | Route follows along the southern edge of Big John Flat until you reach singletrack.   | 204   |
| Faint trail                                | Look for trail heading left down bank right after a hard right bend of the road. Welcome to the Tushars my friend. You have made it to the fun part.  | 204.5 |
| South Fork North Creek trail               |   | 205.5 |
| Left on hard to see trail                  | Critical trail junction, can be hard to spot. Right at the high point of the trail, look on the left for an opening cut into a downed tree and a "Trail" sign tacked to a standing tree on left. Challenging terrain ahead. | Cross highway, take PST5 on left           |   | 213.1 |
| Hard right towards exciting water crossing |   | 214.6 |
| Stay on PST68                              |   | 217   |
| Right on gravel road                       |   | 222.9 |
| Left towards Beaver                        |   | 223.8 |
| Right on PST68                             | Got brakes? A big break burner of a descent coming your way.  | 226.2 |
| Left across creek                          | This is the last good water source for quite a few miles as the route transitions from the Tushars to the Markagunt Plateau.  | 232.1 |
| Hard left                                  |   | 239.6 |
| Right on fainter track                     |   | 241.9 |
| Segment 6                                  |   | 245   |
| Willow Creek Trailhead                     |   | 255.3 |
| Spring                                     |   | 261.5 |
| Segment 7                                  |   | 271   |
| Right towards Forks Valley                 | The route avoids the first few miles of the Spruce trail. It is probably the nastiest hike a bike I've encountered. You are welcome.  | 271   |

|                                    |   |        |
|------------------------------------|---|--------|
| Cross meadow/marsh to Spruce trail | Look for carsonite signs indicating trail location in meadow.   | 272.55 |
| water                              |   | 278.75 |
| water                              | Hard to miss it - it's in the trail...at least during spring runoff.  | 278.9  |
| GATE                               | Southern terminus of Spruce trail. Don't go through wooden fence/gate, instead go left of it on sweet trail.  | 281.4  |
| Left on main road                  | Sydney peaks is still snowbound so down we go.  | 281.7  |
| Begin Marathon trail               | Continue on down the road - the Louder ponds/Marathon come in on your right here. The route is now on the "Marathon" proper, but it is road/atv in many places. There are some carsonite signs but you'll need this track to figure it all out. | 283.9  |
| Red Desert                         | You'll recognize this region if you've done the Brian Head 100  | 290.4  |
| Faint Trail                        | GPS will help through here  | 297    |
| Almost done...                     | 11.5 miles to go! Continue on doing segment 1 in reverse - from Te-ah CG to the start via VRRT and the jeep road to Woods Ranch.  | 302.86 |
